Vineyard Info:

With fruit from two vineyards in the region at varying elevations, this wine is unmistakably Dry Creek Valley. The hillside vineyards benefit from cool nights and hot days combining to add depth and intensity to the grapes. The chilly coastal breezes help transform this terroir into the perfect growing region for Zinfandels.

Winemaker Notes:

This big and bold Zin lets you know where it stands from the outset. Aromas of blueberry and plum pair with a pinch of clove to fill your airways. Moderate tannins will touch your mid-palate in route to the blackberry jam finish that lingers on the back end.
